This Pet Dog Taken From Pound To Luau

Mrs. Nakuina has lost a dog. Supervisor Keoloha and his friends had a dog feast. Thereby hangs a tale. And that's the reason the officers of the police station are doing their best to get Mrs. Nakuina to accept their terms for a compromise on damages for a pet dog taken from the dog pound. Mrs. Nakuina for several years past has owned a St. Bernard slut, a very intelligent animal, a perfect watch dog and a generally beloved home pet. Not long ago the dog strayed far from home and was picked up by the dog man. He promptly took it to the pound at Iwilei. When the dog left the pound it was to meet death and satisfy the hunger of a party given. Mrs. Nakuina says, by Supervisor Keoloha. "The dog was in the pound less than the time required by law," said Mrs. Nakuina at the Bulletin office yesterday afternoon. "The truth is that these people were on the watch for a good fat dog and as soon as this pet of ours came along, they killed it. "It was impossible to keep a collar on the dog, so I don't blame the pound man for taking it. But just (Continued on Page 2)

Delegate's Secretary Sends Word Of Progress Made For Starting Naval Station

Delegate Kuhio's private secretary, George B. McClellan, is doing splendid work for Pearl Harbor progress while some people of Honolulu are striving to send men to Washington. The Delegate received a letter from McClellan in this morning's mail which is full of hope for the Pearl Harbor work. He feels confident that Hawaii will get an official recommendation to Congress by the Navy Department for beginning a naval station at Pearl Harbor. McClellan reports having seen Admiral Dewey about the matter and he (Dewey) arranged for a conference with a sub-committee of the General Board of the Navy. They went into the matter at length and the private secretary was told unofficially that a recommendation will be made by the Board to the Secretary of the Navy. Meanwhile Mr. McClellan has seen the Secretary of the Interior, who handles all Hawaiian matters, and he will ask the President to make special mention of Pearl Harbor in his message to Congress. If the Secretary of the Navy will kokua the favorable report of the Naval Board it will open the way for a beginning of the long-delayed naval station at Pearl Harbor.

The Chamber of Commerce has received a number of additional letters from Congressmen and Chambers of Commerce in answer to its requests for their assistance in securing the Pearl Harbor appropriations. While some of these are merely formal acknowledgments of the receipt of the letters, others show that the writers will give active assistance. The letter passed by our board of directors was received in full, as follows: at the meeting held Sept. 25th. A Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce. (Continued on Page 2)

Jack London His Captain And Demosthenes Garden

Hilo, when the Kinau left, was reverberating with the story of the day, or the evening, when Jack London and his captain held had an encounter with Demosthenes and a sugar-boiler from out of town. It was not a case of Greek meeting Greek. But in characteristic it was great. If you have ever been to Hilo, you will know that the bar of Demosthenes' Cafe is sort of a little garden affair not far from the dining-room. During the course of an afternoon Jack London and his Captain had met in the garden to confer. As they conferred, the Captain had a few bowls. Jack is an author, so nobody knows whether he bowls or not. As afternoon drew to twilight and twilight to supper-time, it occurred to the conferees that they would prefer to have their dinner served on the tables in the garden of the bar. This is against the rules of the house. Demosthenes said "NO!" And his jolly "ha-ha" that had been ringing through the town all the afternoon changed to a tone of authority. The discussion grew loud and positive. All the while a sugar-boiler from out of town had been observing the trend of things. The captain of the Snark was doing most of the talking. ## STANFORD CHEERED BULLETIN GIRLS

Great Student Body Does Sky Rocket For Hawaii

(BY MILO K. TEMPLE)

Stanford University, Oct. 2. — The Evening Bulletin girls took Stanford by storm today.

The ovation they received in the auditorium, where a couple of prominent San Francisco men were to address the students, put in the shade all the other features on the program. They sang a couple of Hawaiian airs at Dr. Jordan's request and the applause that they were greeted with and the "skyrocket" that the students gave them fairly shook the hall. They were treated to an exhibition of college enthusiasm that set a precedent to those of the girls who had never attended a university function.

The only drawback to their visit was its shortness. Why, they couldn't even spend the evening here. They had to go back on the 3 o'clock train. We fellows wanted to give a dance in their honor but we didn't get a chance. Mrs. Weathered was pleasant, even sympathetic, but firm; the schedule had to be lived up to. For all of which we were very sorry, especially those of us ex-citizens of the Territory who knew the girls and were longing to bring back memories of palm-leaf Hawaii by indulging in the favorite Honolulu social pastime. The girls struck a lucky day. A University "assembly" was scheduled for 11:15 a. m., which means that at that hour class-work is suspended and all students gather in the "Assembly Hall" to listen to addresses previously arranged for by the Faculty. The girls' visit was unexpected, but they were made welcome and given good seats in the balcony, the part of the auditorium used by the co-eds. As the fellows filed in on the floor below, the Hawaiian hats and bright leis of the Bulletin girls immediately attracted their attention. The opportunity to satisfy their curiosity as to the strangers, and to bid them welcome, soon came, however, for Dr. (Continued on Page 4.)

Barney's Off Day And Costly

(Special Cable to The Bulletin) SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 12.—San Francisco lost its game with Oakland today with Barney Joy in the box. The score was San Francisco 1, Oakland 6. Four runs were made by Oakland in the first inning. Joy gave seven bases on balls and did not score a single strike-out. Two wild pitches were scored against him.

W. G. Irwin has made a present to the Supreme Court in the shape of three chairs, which, he says, are quite historical so far as the Supreme Court is concerned. They were used for many years by the Court during the time of Judges Allen and Harris, and possibly at an earlier day. Irwin purchased them at auction about the time of the overthrow of the Monarchy.

Chief Justice Hartwell has written a letter to Mr. Irwin, thanking him for the historically valuable present.

A. Garvie, of Bishop & Co., arrived today from a trip to Oahu. Mr. Garvie says that the fields of the big Hawaii plantation are in splendid shape and everything promises well.
